speech, a free press and popular governmen were becoming very acceptable to mankind with the illustrations we gave of their happy results for a generation or two; but they have rather fallen into disrepute amongst men. A democratic government is but a bubble that will burst with the slightest disturbance, is beginning to be the opinion, especially amongst those who wished it so all the while. We would, suggest, however, that if repubicanism is a failure with us, it is not more so than all sorts of governments have been in the world. They have all been failures. It is true that monarchy in some form has been the rule generally, but monarchies have been upset, torn down, and knocked about without mercy. Neither the English nor French Governments are what they were; and neither has yet lasted as long without essential change as the old Roman Commonwealth did. We are involved in a gigantic revolution, full of crimes and horrors, and can't tell how it will end; but still republicanism may live perhaps. The chances for it are as good as the chances of monarchy have often been in the world, at least in the estimation of the people concerned. The danger to popular government does not arise from the danger of popular rule. Evils have befallen us because the people did not rule, and not because they did. The darger is in the domination of the few whose ambitions designs and purposes the people would never sanction if time was given for a sober verdict-with a free press and free speech. Wm. L. Yancey, a distinguished demagogue understood how to assail the weak point. He proposed, by sgitation, not to persuade the people into rebellion, but to precipitate them. No time was given for a fair hearing. All was naste, and confusion, and excitement, and assion. It was not popular government that was to blame, but the want of it. It was not free speech and a free press that did the evil, but the want of them. The few, by vigilance committees, by mob violence and intimidation, managed to pass off their proceedings for a popular verdict, which was not the case information, and the result will be safe. What was wanted was a check on party ac tion; some means to insure the sober second thought. Before we condemn popular action, let the people have fair play. If a reasonable proposition was made to the people to-day. nd they were allowed time to vote on it, this difficulty would be settled. If the leaders had submitted the Crittenden compromise to the North and South, there would have been no question as to the result. We have now got syond the point where popular action is of any avail. Party, that is, party leaders North and South, have shaped a policy, and left to the people but to take one or the other. They have made it indispensable to fight on and no compromise. Even discussion is not allowed, except as a matter of grace. Arbitrary power claims the right to dictate what people shall hear and read. Popular action thus fettered

the country, must be attended to first. It may be said that popular institutions are ness. It is the very objection to them that gogues to get power and abuse it, until matters are so arranged that popular action is re- graceful to obey a law if we don't like it. pressed or pullified, and the popular verdict can only be on a choice of evils; and that is apt to be at last to seek refuge from anarchy n a despotism.

Mr. Seward tells us the war will end in three years. The Cincinnati Gazette tells us the "violent and impassioned appeals of the Georgia and South Carolins papers" show the ebels are trembling in their boots. We are onvinced, for the nine hundred and how anyeth time, that the rebels are squelshed. We believe it is truly loyal to believe they are, ut we starve them and freeze them, and still hey present an unbroken front. We hold the land, but nothing else. Sherman marches to Savannah, Pensacola or Charleston, and Hood marches into Tennessee or Kentucky, and the two armies hold the ground they occupy, and, more ravenous than Poe's raven hold "only this and nothing more." Wouldn't it be better, instead of all this humbuggery, to say frankly, we are fighting a valiant, highspirited, active people, who will die in the last ditch, rather than submit to downright subju-

A great, a magnanimous government will offer them all they ask beyond the division of the Union, and be proud to have them, and we ask no less from the Republican party and the gobbled up some of his fine stock. Republican Administration.

The New York Herald has a very just riticism of presenting silver tea or dinner sets to public men, referring to Capt. Winston; and it brings up a fact unknown to us before that the silver set presented to Commodore Decatur was sold twice by his widow; once when it was returned and once when it was given to Mrs. Commodore Barney. The Herald is right in comparing it to the presents tion of an elephant.

dropped perpendicularly south from Louis ville strikes near Pensacola. A straight line rectly east from Milledgeville, Ga., rieston, South Carolina, and a straight lin outh by east strikes Savannah. Wilmington is northeast of Milicogeville and southeast of Louisville. These are the four points, any one of which Sherman is said to be making.

It is beginning to be hinted that the Florida was not sunk by accident. Of course all the world will suspect it, and it is a point that will be necessary to clear up. The destruction of the vessel by design would be worse than the original capture. A Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, who is too much a partisan to ee the meanness of the act, says:

I know the Government would have been much better pleased if the Florida had been sunk before she was struck; and I have reason to suspect (not of course from anything said or proposed at the Navy Department) that if Brezil should demand her return, she will be very apt to spring a leak and go down before she gets back.

The Evening Post is quite incredulous as to the accidental collision by which the Florida was sunk, and, in the course of an article on the subject, remarks:

the subject, remarks:

Of course our enemies abroad will exclaim that the sinking of the Florida is only another "Yankee trick," and will refuse to believe that it was a mere accident which sent her to the bottom. Such people are apt to judge others by themselves. But if it were a trick, it would be in reality no "Yankee trick," which has commonly the merit of sagacity, but such a blundering piece of smartness as that of the countryman who sawed off a branch upon which he was sitting, between himself and the tree, and brought his body uncomfortably to the ground. For, so far as the facts are known, the case of the Florida was of such a nature that our own privateering interests, in any future war, would be immensely benefited by the precedent of our surrendering her on the demand of Brazil. It might have been supposed that a shrewd, long-headed nay officer selzed her only in order that her surrender might establish a precedent of peculiar importance to us. That would have been an apt piece of "Yankee cuning;" but a willful destruction of the ship, ander existing discounteres, is such as not provided and a surple content of the ship, ander existing discounteres, is such as and provided and an apt piece of "Yankee cuning;" but a willful destruction of the ship, ander existing discounteres, is such as near the provided and a surple of the ship, and the provided and the surple of the ship, and the provided and the ning: but a willful destruction of the ship ander existing circumstances, is such an act of stupidity that we must refuse to believe that any one connected with the public service uld be guilty of it. But this must be made

Owing to circumstances over which we have no control, General Sherman's private dispatches haven't yet been received at our office for publication.

From his previous letters to us, Mr. Lincoln and General Grant, we think he has gone where "Joe Willet" lost his arm-to the "Salwanners" (C. Dickens, Rep. 2.)

One exchange tells us that he is perfectly safe because he can march on Wilmington; that is, march through Georgia, South Carolins, and into North Carolina. We call that as Alleghany Mountains (except the Pittsburg safe as a bug in a rug-for he's not trying it. Gefferal Sherman may change his mind, laoring as he does under the great disadvantage of not having us with him to advise with; but we insist he is going where Joe Willet lost his arm.

designs or destination. When Davis sent and Hood took the only army apparent in the country off his shoulders, and carried it through the mountains to stick in the mudbetween Tuscumbia and Florence, Sherman determined to make an attempt on the lines of communication between Virginia and the Carolinas, and wrest it from the Confecerate States. His work in Northern Georgia was done and for pitrice operations any point on states. His work in Northern Georgia was done, and for ulterior operations, any point on the sea coast would be better than Chatanooga. He risked much in sppearance, but perhaps little in reality, by destroying his communications. A marching army can transport ammunition for at least three pitched battles, and for supplies at this season of the year he might partly rely upon the country through which he goes.

Yesterday, when the resignation of Attorney General Bates took effect, the position was tendered to Hon. Joseph Holt, of Kentucky; but that gentleman, while thanking the President for this expression of his kindness and confidence, declined the appointment.

The report of the Postmaster General is the only one jet completely in type, and it is expected that the reports of other heads of departments will be printed by Sunday. From present appearances, there will be no advance of copies to the press, and therefore that document will be communicated to the country as last year, by telegraph—probably on Mondon

It is of great importance that the enemy should not know all. Sherman may get to the seaboard and embark for Grant's army, but as far as apprehending anything serious, there is no danger whatever. Neither Macon, Augusta nor Columbus, all of which were as near vital points as any in Georgia, have been attacked by Sherman. Kemble's division of the 4th corps held the right; Cox, of the 23d corps, the center; Ruger, of the 4th, the left; and Wagner, of the 4th, the outer line covering the center. The enemy advanced about 3½ o'clock, driving our outer line before him. Wagner retired before a superior force to the main line, and fought his division gloriously with Ruger and Cox.

This seems to have been the first attack, led by Cleburn's division of Cheatham's corps. Following this attack the enemy charged forward at all points, and the battle raged furifully wounded. Riley's brigade of Cox's division captured eighteen battle flags. The 4th corps took in all over thirty flags.

The battle proper lasted two and a half hours. After dark the enemy charged repeatedly, but was as often beaten back with terrible loss. Prisoners say Hood assured his army that if the Yankee line were broken our army would be lost, and if lost the war was over. They fought so desperately that the rebel musketry were often thrust between the parapet and the head-log. Swaths of dead lay all along our line. In front of Riley's works lay the dead body of the rebel Brigadler General Adams. His horse's fore feet were on our parapet, when a volley killed both, and swept into eternly the line he led.

The enemy continued to charge our works until nine o'clock at night. Our loss in killed and wounded cannot exceed fifteen hundred. The enemy's will exceed five thousand.

The original plan was to retire the main army to the defenses of Nashville, and, in accordance therewith, our forces retired during the night in the direction of Nashville.

Capt. Jim Wilson brought three greybacks, whom he had bagged, out of Green river on a raff, in the absence of other means of transportation, and turned them over to the miliportation, and turned them over to the minitary sutborities here.

By the way, Wilson had a little fight with Walker Taylor and his gang of thieves a tew days ago in the country back of Lewisport.

Taylor had twenty-two men, and Wilson came on him suddenly with fifty or sixty smoked Yankees, when the eboules went for the Johnnies, who broke and fied in wild dismay, leaving two of their men deed and one wounded, who died also quite suddenly after the pursuit had terminated. Few men in Kentucky have captured and wiped out more gyrils than has Capt. Jim Wilson. CUT OUT .- We learn by private letter from correspondent in the army that on the night of November 29th Capron's brigade, one of the best in the service-consisting of the Fourteenth Illinois cavalry, Fifth Iowa cavion, it having been thoroughly repaired and alry, Seventh Ohio cavalry, and Eighth Mich igan cavalry-were completely surrounded a short distance from Nashville, and after a at the shooting affray in Portland on last most desperate fight, and a loss of a large number of killed and wounded, they succeeded in cutting their way out. NASHVILLE, Dec. 2. Nashville, Dec. 2.

I have received full accounts of the battle at Franklie, and its antecedents, which must be chronicled as one of the most brilliant in its general results of the war. For three days sharp skirmishing was kept up, during the retirement of our army from Duck river to Franklin, during which time a multiplicity of exploits and successes resulted to the national arms.

General Cox conducted the rear guard, and on the 29th ult. achieved a splendid victory over the rebels at Spring Hill, while General
Wilson's cavalry gained a series of important accesses over Forrest's advance, under Roddy. on the pike between Triune and Spring Hill.
During the afternoon of the 30th ult. the rebel army sorely presed us under Hood, who had Cheatham's and Stawart's corps and a portion of Dick Taylor's command, numbering in the start of the star

M.

The entire rebel force made a charge and succeeded in making a temporary break in our center, commanded by Wagner.

With characteristic impetnosity, the soldiers composing Chestham's corps dashed into our breastworks, and, co-operating with into our breastworks, and, co-operating with the attacking party on their left, attempted to eavelop and destroy our right. In the nick of time the troops of Wagner were rallied, and, throwing their whole force upon the rebel column, drove back the storming perty in great disorder, capturing several hundred prisoners. Four times after this the rebels charged in three lines, but were repulsed as often, with great slaughter. The rebels num-

The artillery fire of the enemy was made vith great precision, but their ammunition consisted chiefly of shot and shell, while for wo hours immense quantities of more mursiles were hurled with fearful fary ato the rebel lines.

All the attempts of the rebels to gain a per-nament advance were frustrated, and at dark the Federal position was unchanged, while the rebels retired to a cover of woods south of the Columbia pike.

The rebel loss, as before stated, is fully 6,000, including over 1,100 prisoners, an unusual number of which were officers. Our loss reaches a total of about one thousand. An artillery duel was kept up till near midnight, when our troops commenced crossing Harpeth river, bringing all our trains and parenters of the contract of phernalia over in safety before daylight. The srmy then retired to within four miles of this city, at which point our front line confronts he enemy. The falling back of our army is in ce with a programme, and the bat accordance with a programme, and the nature at Franklin, although of the most brilliant form, was an impromptu affair, and brought about owing to the necessity to check the rebel advance and insure a sale crossing of the river by our trains. Additional reports received increase the magnitude of the late victory at Franklin.

Thirty stand of colors were captured by the Union forces. Gen. Stanley's corps, Forty-ninth Indiana, five; Eighty-eighth Illinois, three; Reilly's old brigade, eighteen; Twenty third corps captured four stand.

Gen. Stanley, commanding Fourth corps, had a very narrow escape, having had his horse killed under him, and was shot in the right shoulder, the ball traversing back, go. right shoulder, the ball traversing back, going out at the left shoulder. He is in the city. Though suffering considerably he is still at-nding to duty. It is confirmed that Gen. Pat. Claburne or List confirmed that Gen. Pat. Cleburne or Claburne, of Tennessee, is killed.

Gen. Kimball, commanding Second division of Stanley's corps, in the heat of battle passed a rebel Major General, who told him he was mortally wounded. His men succeeded in carrying off the body.

It is believed that Hood's main army is threatening Murfreesboro. Forrest's rebel cavalry is demonstrating on our front and right flank.

Commodore Fitch is here with a fleet of ron-clad boats. Sufficient forces have arrived to insure not only the safety of Nashville, but another Union victory in case of the company of the safety of t oattle, under any circumstances.
Military men all units in the opinion that generals Stanley and Schofield conducted the etirement from Pulaski in face of the enemy with admirable skill, crowning all with a magnificent Union victory at Franklin.

NASHVILLE, Dec. 2. Gen. Ward succeeds Gen. Stanley in command of the 4th corps, Stanley not being able to take the field. His desperate bravery at the Franklia fight mainly contributed to turn what threatened to be a disastrous repulse into a glorious victory. When part of his command had given way before the enemy, he rushed to the front. He had his horse shot from under him. Himself wounded, he still led on the charge, waying his hat and still led on the charge, waving his hat and calling on his men to follow. He will take the ground that no peace proposition can be entertained untill those in rebellion have laid down their arms and resumed obedience to the government. The vacstion of slavery is is simply incidental, and its abolition unavoidable consequence instead of the object of the war.

The Herald's Shenandosh Valley corre spondent says everything has been quiet at the front for the last few days. The men have employed themselves by putting up comfort-tible log huts, and strengthening their works. The Herald's Second corps correspondence The Heraid's Second corps correspondence of the 29th says the enemy opened heavily with artillery in our front at 4 o'clock this afternoon, and continued until dark. His practice extremely poor, most of the shells exploding in the air and doing little damage. Deserters are coming in in large numbers.

A brief engagement took place this aftercon between the monitors and Howlett's torse battery. Lines quiet to night.

New York, Dec. 2. The Herald's Natchez correspondence of he 21st ultimo contains the following: The New Orleans Era contains the details of ien. Lee's great cavalry raid, fully confirming previous reports as to its success.

Col. Fonds, Eleventh Illinois, was in command of one column, and proceeded to Port Hudson, thence to Jackson. On the 16th, 10 miles from Jackson, he surprised a rebel camp and dispressed it enturing. and dispersed it, expturing 55 prisoners, 200 stand of arms, 100 horses, 25 army wagons and a large amount of military stores. He then moved forward and joined the main column under Gen. Lee, who, thus re-enforced, marched upon Liberty. Another column had been started from Biton Rouge for Liberty, under Colonel Marsh, of the Second Illinois

Col. Marsh remained here until the arrival of Gen. Lee, when two expeditions were disatched still further into the enemy's lines—me going to Brook Haven under Col. Fonday ae other to Summit under Col. Busford, 14th New York cavalry.

At Brookbaven a train of cars, loaded with all kinds of military stores, was captured and destroyed, as also buildings containing quar-termsters stores. Fifty prisoners were taken, a section of artillery and forty wagons loaded with stores. Colonel Bassford found a large quantity of stores at Summit, and as the place was surprised, he secured the whole and destroyed it. He then returned to Liberty with twenty five prisoners and some valuable twenty five prisoners and some valuable trophies of this successful raid. While these expliditions were absent, General Lee was at-tacked at Liberty by Colonel Sect and a most vigorous fight was kept up for two hours, and lithough Lee's force was outnumbered by Scott, the rabels were obliged to retire. The result of thefight was the capture of twentyight priceners, one two pounded. Thirty on thee returned to Baton Rouge. a not over twenty eight.

A fire occurred at Baton Rouge on the 22d. A building, once occupied as a cotton manu-sciory, but lately used as a covernment sta-ble, was destroyed. Over $70,000 worth of property was burned, consisting of horses, mules and harness.

THINK OF IT .- There are 40,000 prison ers on each side, says the Sumter Watchman. Give to each prisoner a family, and imbue them all with the principles of religion, and you have at once a great State. As it is, you have 80,000 victims of a cruel war, pining in captivity, and dying of disease; and perhaps 40,000 women and children fretting at home and mourning the absence of their captive kindred. And yet the war goes on; the wine press of human wrath continues to redden the green carpet of earth with the crimson tide of human blood; and the cloud grows darker over the land, and the red lightnings flash more fiercely. And all this in a Christian land, and in an enlightened age, and among a people whose boast it is that thoir mission is to send the Bible and the missionary and is to send the Bible and the missionary and the light and principles of a meroiful dis-pensation throughout the world. God help us! What a picture for angels to con-template! What a picture for the heathen to look upon! What a picture for Lucifer and his dark train of furies to shout over! God help us!

The Herald's Fortress Monroe special gives an account of an expedition. local demand, and the sales were light at our quota-tions. The news from other points was less favorable and there was less disposition on the part of shippers to operate, while at the same time holders did not se disposed to push their stocks on the market. The re-celpts of Wheat remain light, and not being equal to the emand, the market is much firmer and prices are rat er better. We quote to-day at $1 85 to $1 87 for red and $1 90 to $1 95 for white as to quality.

Groceries are about the same as quoted in our last rert, with the exception of a much firmer feeling in offee, and some of our dealers were holding at an adance of 1c, though no sales were made at the advanrice. The only transaction we heard of to-day was at 44%c for Rio.

The Hog market to-day was very firm, and at the ose it was buoyant with rather an upward tendency n prices. The rec me 6,000 head, all of which met with a ready sale at ife gross, and we learn that the same price was refused for an extra lot, to be delivered next week. The houses to-day were in full operation, and the number slaugh-tered in this city up to to-night will not fall short of 16,000 head, including those packed for the Government. At Jeffersonville, Hamilton, Ricketts & Co. have packed for the Government nearly 6,000 head, which, with the number killed at New Albany, will make the number laughtered around the falls so far this season about 25,000 head. In the pens this evening there were about 15,000 head, which will make the receipts in round num-bers about 40,000 head. There was a report that some of the houses had purchased all they wanted, and that after killing what they had in pens they would withdraw from the market. Good hoss delivered at the farmers'

Provisions are dull, with ne offerings being made. There is considerable difference between the views of uyers and sellers, based upon the news received from lew York and Cincinnati. There is rather a more active demand for money, and eartles find it difficult to negotia'e any but the very best caper. In New York this morning Gold opened at an ivance, but declined, according to our noon dispatch c, the closing rate being 232. Later advices received his afternoon state that there had been a still further lecline, and the market here to-morrow will no doubt pen at a decline of 2c on our quotations below.
